

HighWire Press now has Custom Print, a service provided by The Sheridan Group, which allows you to click on a link from HighWire Press and select an article or groups of articles for the purpose of creating a custom publication. Please see the FAQ below for more details.

FAQ - The Custom Print Program

What is Sheridan Custom Print (or Custom Publishing)?

Sheridan Custom Print (or Custom Publishing) is a service that provides a simple and quick way to purchase publications you have crafted, using the articles you need, from one easy-to-navigate location.

Use the simple tools provided to build your own specialty collections of articles – assembled and produced to your specifications. And, you may choose your product delivery in high quality print or electronic format.

Look for the link named “Add Custom Print Article” associated with articles on the publisher’s online journal pages. By clicking the link, your selections will become available for your customized publication.

Who can use the Custom Publishing features?

By accessing publisher online content, anyone can build custom publications based on specific communication needs and professional specialty niches.

How do I order my custom publication?

Step 1. Complete Your Article Selections On the Publisher's Site

Use the search tools, journal issue table of contents, and article abstract pages on the publisher’s online journal pages to locate the articles you would like to include in your custom publication.

Add your article selections to the custom publication shopping cart by clicking the “Add Custom Print Article” link associated with each article or located in the services sidebar menu.

Step 2. Create Your Custom Publication

Your article selections will be sent to a specially designed shopping cart and you will use the instructions and tools provided in the shopping cart to assemble your articles into a custom publication. When the publication is assembled please indicate ink color (black ink only or full color), purchase quantity, and product type.

Step 3. Select Your Ink Color, Product Type, and Purchase Quantity

You may select either print or electronic format (if available) for your articles or custom publications by indicating a purchase quantity in the dropdown menu associated with each product type. Please see Product Options below for a full explanation of the print and electronic products.

What are my product options?

ePrint - Electronic Articles and Publications (if available)

If available as a product type in the shopping cart you may choose an electronic format (ePrint) for single articles and custom publications.

Print Articles and Publications

Our printed articles and bound publications are available in black ink only or in full color.

Your articles or publications are printed on excellent quality paper and with superior press reproduction. Each custom publication is bound with an attractive cover (printed on heavy cover stock) and a table of contents.
